Just after experiencing with Klarheit Grotesk, Klarheit Kurrent came up instinctively through the works of Alex Dujet. Shaped from the structures of the genitive Grotesk family, the designer has positioned this variation as a strong tool to design big headlines and atypical text approaches. This version offers more sliced decisions in some letter junctions, and tends to increase communication projects authenticity.

Still bouncing between modernism and geometrical standards from the Bauhaus, this time Klarheit Kurrent doesn't offer any stylistic sets in order to answer the opposite of Klarheit Grotesk. Somehow, it is more about a quest through a unique extreme approach. Like the main objectives established in the Grotesk decisions, this typeface preserve a generous height of the lowercases and very open counters to still keep facilities in readability.

The union would have little or no bargaining power, and so no one will receive any negotiated pay rises or improved conditions of work. The fact that people do join organisations, do become active in them must mean that there is something missing from the simple rational action model. Olson has suggested that collective action is sustained through what he calls selective incentives. Unions might attract members, for example, if they can ensure that only their members will benefit from what they are able to negotiate. Selective incentives alter the rewards

END USER LICENSE AGREEMENT

The terms and conditions below establish an agreement between the purchaser (license owner) and Extraset (Société Simple ou SNC Société en nom commun? M'en souviens tplus), based in Geneva, Switzerland.

By purchasing, downloading, installing, using, or handling the fonts (digital typeface software), you accept and certify complying with its terms.

If you don't accept you are not allowed to use Extraset Fonts.

By purchasing the licence, you become a licensed user, not the owner of the fonts. You are not purchasing the copyright to the design or any other elements of the fonts, but only the rights to use it in specific conditions (described below), depending the licensing options you contracted.

The rights to the designs, all other elements of the fonts and intellectual property remains entirely the property of Extraset and the designer of the font.

You may not sell, lease, lend, sublicense, assign or transfer any rights, duties or obligations to a client or any third-party.

You are not allowed to copy the fonts or allow third party to copy the fonts.

Your are not permitted to modify the fonts in any way without permission from Extraset. We can provide custom versions on demand. Please contact us if you need informations.

If you happen to experience technical issues, please contact us and we will do our best to solve the problem. If we are unable to do so we will fully refund your purchase if you request it within 30 days after purchase. Refunding will terminate your license to use the font.

You must destroy any copies of the fonts after termination of a licence.

Extraset cannot be held responsible for any damage caused to a purchaser's hardware, software or any loss of time or income that may have occurred as a result of downloading, installing or using Extraset fonts. Extraset fonts are downloaded, installed and used entirely at the purchaser's own risk.

When you buy Extraset fonts you buy either a desktop license, either a web license, or both. Those will be described below. Please contact us for all other type of licencing.

DESKTOP/PRINT LICENSE

Purchasing a desktop license allows you to use the font on a limited amount of computers and for any type of printed projects and any rastered image for print and web. The fonts may be embedded into PDF files and as rasterized files (PNG, GIF, JPG ). For other formats the purchaser must ensure that it is not possible to extract the fonts from the document.

When embedded in production files, a copy of the fonts may be shared with printing companies. The fonts must be destroyed by the printing company after production.

Extraset DESKTOP/PRINT fonts are provided in OTF format and can only be used offline (except for rasterized images).

The Fonts may only be installed and used at most only by the maximum number of users specified on the license you purchased. Extraset offers different licensing options depending on the number of users. Please refer to the invoice you received after purchase.

A Desktop/Print license doesn't allow the purchaser to generate web-fonts from Desktop/Print fonts. If you want to use the font on the web you need to buy a web license. If you need to use the font on apps please contact us.

You only need to purchase a Desktop/ Print license once.

WEB LICENSE

Purchasing a web license allows you the right to use the Font for one or several domains. (Please refer to the invoice you received to see the number of domains you purchased).

Extraset offers different web licensing options depending on the number of monthly visitors of your website. In the case of an increase in visitor on your website, the license must be updated on an annual basis. (Please refer to the invoice you received after purchase to see the amount of visitors allowed).

Extraset webfonts are provided in WOFF format and can only be self-hosted on the Licensee's servers. The Domains may only be modified with the written permission of Extraset.

The purchaser can exclusively use the CSS @font-face technology to display text on a Website.

A Web License doesn't allow the purchaser to generate Desktop /print fonts. If you want to use the font for print you need to buy a Desktop/Print license. If you need to use the font on apps please contact us.
